weeks from to-day. Many friends of Dr. O Connell were at the pier to bid him farewell Before sailing the archbishop sent this message to the people of his diocese:

diocese:
"I cannot express in words my gratitude for the kindness of all. God will return it. I cannot. I heg the prayers of all for my voyage. Au revoir"

son, to whom she has considered herself engaged, will be called in the Supreme Court to answer the grand jury's charge that it was he who furnished her with the fatal poison. The arraignment will be a brief proceeding.
Its most immediate result, it is believed, will be the announcement of the date upon which the olergyman will be placed on trial.

Although the police have been quietly at work since the return of the indictment, it is understood that they are still unable to declare certainly the manner in which the poison reached Miss Linnell.

The police say they have learned that the clergyman actually had asked a minister to marry him to Miss Linnell on a date not fixed.
